ENORMOUS, CONSTANT PAIN HAS TAKEN MY LIFE AWAY

Since mid-2024, I have been living with an incurable, chronic, and treatment-resistant condition — fibromyalgia. At first, the name "fibromyalgia" meant nothing to me. Today, it defines every moment of my life. This illness is a life sentence.

I live with severe, widespread pain every day (ranging from 3 to 9 on a pain scale), often unbearable and overwhelming. The pain affects my muscles, joints, and soft tissues, making even the simplest daily activities extremely difficult. Walking increases the pain. Touch — even bedsheets or clothing — can be painful due to skin hypersensitivity (allodynia). Loud sounds intensify my symptoms and make concentration almost impossible. I also suffer from severe, treatment-resistant insomnia, which further worsens the pain.

Fibromyalgia is a disorder of the central nervous system, yet proper diagnosis and treatment are extremely difficult. I have spent years seeking help, consulting countless specialists, undergoing therapies and treatments — all with little to no relief.

Treatment is long-term and extremely costly. Despite all efforts, my condition has not improved. I am asking from the bottom of my heart for your support.

The photo shows me before the illness — a happy, energetic young man. I am fighting every day to survive and hold on to hope.
